Copyright and Licenses	Although most images on Flickr are published with all rights reserved, there is also a large number of images offered under Creative Commons copyright licenses. The Creative Commons attribution licenses allow for image use as long as the photographer is credited for the original creation. Possibly, use is granted under additional restrictions, but none of these preclude the use of the images for benchmarking purposes. While compiling the MIRFLICKR-25000 collection we have made sure only Creative Commons images were included and took care to collect as much information possible about the creators of the image. The creator information as well as the exact license type and image title are collected in image license metafiles, which are distributed together with the images. We would like to take the opportunity here to express our gratitude to the image photographers for allowing us to use their pictures: we greatly appreciate this and gladly acknowledge your work. Your names and license details are also listed in this credit document. Please let us know if you have special wishes on how you would like to be credited or have additional details that must be incorporated.
